TO SET ASIDE A WILL.

Against the Beneficiaries.

W. W. Herod, attorney for Mrs. Effle M. Lynch, widow of John H. Lynch, a saloon keeper whose will was admitted to probate recently, instituted suit yesterday | their conditions. Contrasting conditions, to have the will set aside. Patrick Lynch, fother of the decedent, and Margaret Lynch, Bridget L. Creigh, Mary L. Elbry, William F. and Michael Lynch, brothers and sisters of the testator, are all made defendants. In her complaint Mrs. Lynch alleges that her husband died, leaving no children, and that she is his sole and only heir-at-law. She charges that the will admitted to probate, which gives various sums to each of the defendants, was obtained by undue influence and coercion, while the testator was of unsound mind, owing to the fact he had been an habitual drunkard for a number of years and had become enfeebled in mind and body by the excessive use of intoxicants.

John H. Lynch left an estate valued at about $15,000. His wife is given a one-third interest, $1,000 in cash, and the remainder of the estate that may remain after the payment of bequests to other relatives. Will of Melinda L. Murphy.

The will of Melinda L. Murphy was admitted to probate yesterday. Bequests ranging from $5 to $200 are made to twenty-four different beneficiaries, all of whom, the will states, showed marks or kindness to the testatrix during her life. She directs that a tombstone be placed over her grave at a cost not to exceed $50. After the payment of the bequests mentioned in her will she directs that the residue of her estate shall descend to Bert Swain, of Katle Ryder's will was also admitted to probate. She bequeathed $200 to her son Francis and $10 each to her daughter, Mary Branigan, and her son, Orbis Ryder. It was evidently the intention of the testatrix to bequeath the remainder of her esbequests above mentioned, but by an error the will reads that he is to have all her property. most enthusiastic and successful in the history of the organization. The hall was crowded to the utmost, demonstrating that it will be necessary for the club to seek a more commodious meeting place. The club now numbers a membership of nearly 300 Jews who stand for sound money and commercial prosperity, every one of whom will vote for McKinley this fall, regardless | ganization of mine owners calls itself. of previous political affiliations. Isadore Wulfson, chairman of the club, says that he is confident the membership will reach five hundred within the next few days, as from ten to twenty applications for membership are being received nearly every day. With one exception the membership of the club is limited to Jews. At the last business meeting of the club the rules were suspended for five minutes, long enough to allow ex-Police Judge Stubbs to be admitted to honorary membership. An interesting incident of the meeting last night | mittee is left to its own resources, which was his initiation. He and Albert W. Wishard, L. F. Rothschild, L. F. Littleton, T. P. Welsh, of Blair, Neb., John W. Bowlus, Thomas P. Shuffleton and George Elliott made brief addresses.

After the meeting was called Chairman Wulfson recognized Philip Marr, who explained that the rules had been suspended in order to elect ex-Juage Stubbs an honorary member of the club. Mr. Marr declared that Judge Stubbs was regarded as an earnest, reliable friend of the Jews, and one whom they were especially glad to honor. Mr. Wulfson held in his hand a scroll, which he proceeded to unroll, exa scroil, which he proceeded to unroll, ex-plaining to Judge Stubbs that it was a certificate of membership in the club. been on the stump since the St. Louis certificate of membership in the club. When it was unrolled a picture of William McKinley was exposed to view, and the well-known features of prosperity's standard bearer were the signal for loud and prolonged cheering and applause. Judge Stubbs, in accepting the honor conferred upon him, declared that the club might rely upon him to do everything possible to aid it in its campaign for honest principles and the preservation of the national credit

A. W. Wishard made a forcible address, dwelling upon the past history of the Republican party on all questions affecting the public good, and referring particularly to its attitude on the money question. In

"I do not know that there is anybody in the world that ought to be better judges of good money than the Jews. It is a matter of history that in all controversies on public questions the Republican party has been on the right side and the Demo-cratic on the wrong side. When the question is presented the Republican party takes the lead and the Democratic party takes what is left. that God had made gold the more valuable and that no acts of man can change the standard set. A year ago Mr. Wishard made a trip to Mexico. He said that prior to that trip he was somewhat tinctured with the idea that a more general use of silver was desirable, but after his experience there he was satisfied the gold standard was the only reliable basis. He told how he had exchanged 100 American silver dollars for 200 Mexican dollars this side of the border, paying $1.25 exchange. At the restaurants, hotels and every place else he found an American silver dollar bought as much as two Mexican-this in the face of the fact that the American dollar contained nearly four and a half grains less silver than the other. "The difference was," said Mr. Wishard, "that our money is based upon gold, while the Mexican dollar stood upon a basis of silver. Its value changes as the value of corn or wheat. To-day a dollar is worth 49 cents, to-morrow 51. In that country Mr. Wishard said he saw the poor men-the peonsperforming the work done by horses, mules or oxen in this country. There he actually saw them hitched to plows. The line of demarcation between classes, he said, is no more strictly drawn any place in this world than there. On one side are the rich, who will stay rich, and on the other the poor, with not a chance in the world to better Mr. Wishard said that the man who has large possessions in Indianapolis might have had nothing twenty-nve or thirty years ago. The doctrine of free silver, he said, appealed to some classes of men who hope to become suddenly rich, but while some men may profit by it, the case is analagous to a lottery. Where one man draws a $1,500 prize for his dollar, 2,500 other men draw nothing. He said that if the Republican party is successful the re-sult will be the firm establishment of the monetary system upon a sound basis, just

He declared that the members of the club who now wished to send money to dependent relatives in Russia receive 20 rubles for 10 American dollars, while if free coinage prevails the amount will be cut in two. In closing he said: "Vote for your own families, your own children; vote for your neighbors. If McKinley is elected it means more work, more happiness, less crime and less poverty." He was loudly applauded.
Mr. Littleton assumed that every one in the hall understood what free coinage meant, but when one or the crowd asked him to explain it he did so in a clear, lucid manner which was received with much applause. In speaking of the present troub-les of the country Mr. Littleton declared that the trouble was not due to a lack of money, but rather to the repeal of the Mc-Kinley law, which caused factories to close down and throw men out of employment. Chairman Wulfson announced that there was in the hall a former Democrat from Nebraska, Mr. T. P. Welsh, who was in-vited to speak. Mr. Welsh was loudly applauded when he declared that McKinley would carry Nebraska by 8,000 votes. He figured it out on this basis: There are in the State 75.000 Republicans, 75,000 Populists and 18,000 sound-money Democrats to about 1,000 for free silver.

The fake article credited to the London Financial News, which never pubished it, and the garbled extract from Braine's resumption speech are fair sam-ples of its work, and while this sort of matter did fairly well when people were not paying much attention to the subject, at present, when they are investigating everything, these "fakes" are found to do more harm than good. The friction and quarreling in the national committee has caused a delay in the organization of its working force that has resulted in no literature being put forth, and the State comare rather siender.

They Talk Business, Call on the Governor and Then Go to the Races.

The heads of the police departments of about thirty of the leading towns in In- plated in several more. diana attended the convention of the chiefs of police held in this city yesterday and which will also be in session to-day. Of this number all could hardly be classed as chiefs, but each had charge of the police department of his respective town. C. O. Maegher, superintendent of police of Terre Haute, who has been president of the league for the last year, called the first meeting to order this morning at 11 o'clock in the rooms engaged at the Grand Hotel. After making a brief speech Mr. Maegher announced that the first business in order was the reorganization of the league, and they at once proceeded to the election of the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Thomas F. Colbert, chief of police of this city; secretary, W. H. Fortner, of Muncie. After the installation of these officers they made short | ment. addresses in which they told of the hard-ships encountered in keeping peace and of the difficulty found in getting efficient assistants in the performance of their duties. The programme then permitted all members to discuss the ways and means of attaining the best results in police departments in general. All agreed that politics was the greatest menace to the weilfare and good service of the departments, and it was determined that it would be better for this part of the government to be placed entirely outside the province of poitical influence. Cases were recited in which inefficient men had been left on the forces when there were many capable persons who were anxious and willing to take the places which it was impossible to va-

A call was issued for a meeting in each district on Aug. 26 for the purpose of electing in each district two delegates to the national convention to be held in this city Sept. 2; permanent member of the State committee and to nominate an elector. These district meetings will be asked to delegate to the delegates elected that day the power to elect four delegates at large to the national convention and to nominate two elec-

The mooted question of whether or not convention and I have yet to have the first unsatisfactory meeting. My speeches thus far have been largely confined to localities ing, but was left to be decided later by the State committee to be elected on Aug. 26. The leaders in this city have been opposed to the idea of putting a State ticket in committee there was found a pretty strong feeling in favor of it, based largely upon the ground that it is more difficult to organize for a partial fight than for a fight all along the line. Then the National Democrats of Illinois have determined to put State ticket in the field and believe that their movement in this direction will be considerably strengthened by a similar movement in Indiana. The committee decided that much more intelligent action listrict meetings are held and more is known of the views of the sound-money Democrats as they will be developed at these meetings. Two important points, however, were determined at yesterday's meeting. One of these is that the National Democrats will nominate at least five candidates for Congress in this State. These will be in the Fifth, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth and Eleventh districts, where the Populists and silver Democrats are co-operating for the election of the same man. In three of these districts the nominee was an original Populist. It was further decided that the National Democrats will nominate candidates for the Legislature in every county where days. there is fusion on this subject between Call the Populists and the silver Democrats. Such fusion has already been accomplished in a number of counties and is contem-

Mr. Bynum addressed the committee, reviewing the movement and its causes in a telling speech. Each member of the committee made a report of the political situa-tion in his district. If they are not de-ceived in their views the National Democrats will have a following of not less than wenty thousand voters in Indiana, or at least there are that maney Democrats who vow that they will not vote for Bryan and the Chicago platform. The following call for the district meetings was issued:

To the Democrats of Indiana: Since the time of Jefferson Democrats have believed the success of the cardinal principles of the Democratic party essential to the preservation of the Republic upon the foundations established by the fathers. We are to-day confronted by a crisis which involves the life of those principles and the honor and safety of the govern-

There is now no Democratic candidate for President upon a platform of Democratic principles for which the believers in those principles can vote. Both the plat-form adopted and the candidate nominated thereon at the late Chicago convention reect the most vital tenets of the party, and instead thereof promulgate revolutionary heresies violative of sacred obligations and subversive of government and social order, ial features was adopted by, and the candidate, upon his own seeking, was nomi-nated as the candidate of the Populist party at its St. Louis convention. On the other hand, the Republican plat-form enunciates, and the candidate thereon stands for, certain principles absolutely at variance with Democratic faith. In this supreme crisis representative distinguished for thier devotion an tion to save the party by reasserting its principles, and to that end have issued a call for a National Democratic convention to be held in the city of Indianapolis on the 2d day of Sept., 1896, to adopt a platform and nominate candidates for President and Vice President representative of the true principles of the Democratic party, and requested that each State select delegates to that convention.

LIQUOR MEN IN SESSION.

Executive Committee of the State Liquor League Has a Meeting.

A meeting of the executive board of the State Liquor League was held yesterday afternoon to perfect arrangements for the annual convention of the league, to be held at Tomlinson Hall Sept. 17 and 18. An important feature of the convention will be the mass meeting on the evening o the 17th. To this meeting all reputable saloon n en are invited, whether members of the leagu or not. It is understood that by that time legis lative tickets in all counties of the State will have been selected. It is said that the league is keeping close tab on all nominees, knows how they will vote on liquor laws, and just what is to be expected of them when the Legislature meets next winter. If all reports of this char-acter are in by the time of the convention it is probable that some decision will be reached that time as to whether an effort shall be made to secure the repeal of the Nicholson bill, or whether it will be wiser to simply bend the efforts of the league to defeat the passage of new and more stringent laws. An official of the league said yesterday that no attention being paid to politics in this campaign. He said that two years ago the league thought it could depend upon Democratic legislators and a Democratic executive, but learned its mistake too late. "We know our friends now," he said, "and shall work for their success, no matter to which party they belong."
